SKMB provides support to Redberry Bible Camp after tornado strike.

On Friday, July 10, a tornado struck Redberry Bible Camp. The tornado never touched the ground but hung over it, snapping tree tops and thrusting others to the ground, their roots pulled up! On Redberry Lake, it picked up the floating dock, canoes, kayaks and a storage shed, destroying some and blowing others a long distance away. It cut power lines and destroyed a rope-climbing activity area. Branches and tree tops cluttered the entire camp. The trails and walkways were impassable. Hail the size of baseballs struck at the same time. Miraculously, no one was hurt, and the camp buildings – cabins, dining hall, office and gym – were virtually unscathed.

The immediate challenge for Dave Carey, Redberry's Executive Director, was to keep the upcoming ministry week on track. The campers would register on Sunday, two days away. An urgent appeal for help went out to Redberry supporters; the Saskatchewan MB Conference (SKMB) sent a similar appeal to the family of MB churches in the province. God's people showed up, more than 100 of them! Many brought chainsaws, skid steers, tractors, trucks, and other equipment to clear broken branches and toppled trees. SKMB covered the cost of feeding the volunteers during the recovery. After more than eight hours of non-stop labour by volunteers, the camp was cleared enough to allow the upcoming ministry week to proceed.
